Von Braun's Puzzlehunt: Agent Fieldbook

From the Desk of J. Edgar Hoover

Agents,

A unique situation has arisen in the Huntsville, Alabama area which requires your services. Our intelligence reveals that several Soviet spies are converging on Dr. Wernher von Braun's personal office to obtain secret documents vital to our national security.

We've already sent a team of agents to von Braun's office to find and extract those classified documents before the Soviets can, but we cannot guarantee their success. As such, it's up to you to track down the Soviet spies as they attempt their escape, by following the clues our operatives have uncovered around the City of Huntsville. You are our last line of defense in this crucial national security mission, and our fate lies in your hands! Good luck.

Soviet Puzzles

Agents,

Our operatives have intercepted the following secret messages from the Soviet spies over the past few weeks. Despite all attempts, we have been unable to decipher their hidden meanings. We expect that further data is required to do so. So, you are advised not to attempt to solve these puzzles until you receive further instructions. Instead, print this fieldbook and bring it with you into the field on your upcoming mission.

Don't forget to load either the FB or Twtrr protocol on your handheld computer before leaving on your mission. I will be sending you Mission Updates via those channels during your outing which will help you decipher these mysterious documents. Watch the FB or Twtrr protocol at 10am for your first mission update, and good luck!
